Hydrocarbons will continue to provide the bedrock of energy security for the conceivable future. Renewable energies seem to be adding to hydrocarbon supply but not replacing it. Given ever growing energy demand and worrying decline in investment in oil & gas, should we ask ourselves whether we should stop exploring and developing, or whether we should do more of it?

We are in the crosshairs, so we must grow our production safely and with fewer emissions. However, our safety performance in the last few years has largely plateaued. How do we increase production, decarbonize and continue our safety performance improvement journey? Is our Digital Transformation essential to achieve these three goals?

WHY ATTEND

- Benefit from the perspectives of IOGP (global), Arpel (regional) and IAPG (local), as well as insights from your colleagues in our industry

ABOUT THE ORGANIZERS

About the Association of Oil, Gas and Renewable Energy Companies of Latin America and the Caribbean (Arpel)

Arpel is a non-profit association gathering oil, gas and renewable energy sector companies and institutions in Latin America and the Caribbean. Founded in 1965 as a vehicle of cooperation and reciprocal assistance among sector companies, its main purpose is to actively contribute to industry integration and competitive growth, and to sustainable energy development in the region.

Its members currently operate in more than 30 countries in Latin America and the Caribbean, including national and international operating companies, technology, goods and services providers for the value chain, and national and international institutions in the sector.

About the Argentinean Oil & Gas Institute

IAPG is the technical benchmarker for the oil and gas industry in particular and energy in general of the country. It was established in June 1957 as a non-profit civil organization that creates, plans and performs studies and analysis of all of the activities related to the hydrocarbon industries.

The IAPG involves nearly all of the oil and gas industry-related companies doing business in Argentina. Due to the fact that oil and gas industry activities are conducted in different regions all over the country, the IAPG has established seven section offices in the main producing areas of Argentina, along with its sister organization the IAPG Houston.

International Association of Oil & Gas Producers (IOGP)

With over 95 Members, IOGP fosters dialogue and knowledge exchange, incorporating industry expertise to solve common industry challenges, as the global voice of our industry, pioneering excellence in safe, efficient and sustainable energy. For more than 50 years IOGP has served the upstream industry as a unique forum to share know-how and good practices. It aims to enhance understanding of the critical role the oil and gas industry plays in the energy transitions to a low carbon energy future.
